Upsels are sport's greatest boon. It may take a little argument to prove this, but let's look at a few facts for a moment. If we start right back at the week-end which has just passed, we have a few excellent examples of the lines along which we shall develop our argument. Let's go back to Friday night to begin with.

First we shall mention our own McGill game, out of sincere respect for a gallant Red team that insisted on scoring more goals than their opponents, in spite of the fact that the law of averages, applied to shots-on-goal, should have seen the Flyers wind up on top of the ledger. There is, for instance, our first point; from the all-around speed and aggressiveness of the R.C.A.F. the fans probably expected a McGill defeat eventually. But that was not what they saw. Take your choice: would you rather see a game in which the unexpected happens again and again, or one in which everything pans out exactly as you, the fan, expected it would?

Or if you would like a further concrete example: which of the two games of that night was more exciting and interesting to the spectator? Navy drubbed Army by 9 to 1, and we sat there asking ourselves, "Will Navy score four goals again this period, or will they get it up to five?" Surely our implication is clear. One game was monotonous despite a good team, while the other was exciting to the last siren, and simply because the expected kept happening in the one, whereas the unexpected was the order of the day in the other.

So much for Friday night.

Up in Toronto on Saturday a team that should not have been beaten was given a fancy trimming. We refer to Lou Hayman's thereto undefeated Airmen who bowed to a fifth-place team. Another contest in the same league saw the second-place Navy twelve unceremoniously torpedoes and sunk by a pitted Balmi Beach outfit. Meanwhile Hamilton Wildcats won their crucial test and the sum total threw an almost one-sided league into a state of uncertainty that will probably pack Varsity Stadium next Saturday.

Right in our own back yard we had further evidence on the same day. The 48 to 0 game was obviously dull, but McGill and Verdun kept the fans more than interested because an unexpected fumble was the margin of victory, and another such bolt from the blue could easily have escorted Doug Kerr's men home with the bacon.

If you are a Senior Group fan, you would perhaps rather be reminded of Quebec's 5 to 0 win over the legendary Cornwall team last Sunday. No, it just couldn't happen here, but it did, and the whole league is just that much better at the moment because Quebec is still a tough team to trim on their home ice.

We could go on to draw on such classics as Jim Corbett's boxing lesson to John L. Sullivan one day, long ago, out in California, or Chuck Fenske's win over Wooderson and Cunningham, in the less distant past, and countless others.

It all adds up to the same thing: as long as we have sports, we will have upsels. And as long as we have upsels, we shall really enjoy sports.

Contested Today
In McGill Union

Today's portion of the annual Bovey Shield Contest will take place in the Players' Club Room of the McGill Union between 4.30 p.m. and 6.00 p.m. The subject for discussion is: "Resolved, that the students' greatest contribution in the present situation is in the field of post-war reconstruction."

The time schedule of Military Training made it necessary to spread the competition over two days. The officials of the Bovey Shield Contest wish to stress the importance of promptness on the part of the participants. They ask them to be on time, that is, to appear at 4.30 p.m. if it is possible.

Choice of Topic.

"Today's topic was chosen after hearing expression of views on the question by yesterday's speakers," said one of the officials of the Debating Union. One of these opinions was that the post-war reconstruction is definitely the most important of the tasks of the students of today.

The judges of the Bovey Shield Contest are Professor Cecil Currie and Professor Gifford of Divinity Hall. The final winner will be announced either on Tuesday or at the Mock Parliament.

The rules of the contest state that the speakers may use notes. The contestants will, however, be judged by the ease with which they refer to the notes and the extent to which they are used.

Philosophers
Meet TonightCensorship Will Be Discussed in An Open Forum

The first meeting of the Philosophical Society will be held at 8.15 p.m. in the Union Grill Room. It will consist mainly of an open forum on the problem of censorship. This type of meeting is an innovation for the Philosophical Society as, in the past, their meetings have featured a speaker and a discussion of his speech. The executive expects to hold a few more of the coming year but will usually have speakers as in the past.

Considerations of an ethical nature on the justification of censorship will be the central theme of the discussion. Members of the Society do not know just where the open forum will lead, but they hope that it will follow along ethical lines. They claim a probability that the group will touch on the literary aspect of the subject.

The executive feels that this type of meeting will give all the members an equal chance to take part in the discussions, and that it will provide each member with an opportunity.

To Fill Posts

The deadline for nominations for the executive posts of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society was reached at 2.00 p.m. yesterday. Only one nomination was handed in for each of the three posts, and so each member of the executive has been elected by acclamation.

Neil M. Compton has been chosen to fill the position of President of the Society. He is a student in fourth year Arts, and will fill the post vacated by Tom Hardwick.

The Secretary of the Society is James H. Darragh, who is in second year Science. The Office of Secretary was left vacant by the resignation of Seth Taylor.

The last post, that of Treasurer, is to be taken by John S. Wondor, who is in fourth year Science. Stan (Continued on Page Four)

Required

All entries for the first Campus Life contest of the McGill Annual must be submitted by December 15, Fred Paine, Photography Editor of the Annual, announced yesterday. All camera fans are requested to take notice, and get their entries in before it is too late. The prize will be one copy of "Old McGill '43."

Said the Photography Editor, "Pictures of the great Canadian west are particularly in demand. Some of the returned harvesters must have interesting and amusing snaps—so hand them in, and let the rest of us see what happened there."

Also no pictures of professors have been received. The candid shots of the members of the faculty furnish some of the best bits in the Annual; so this deficiency ought in the opinion of the board to stand as a challenge to ever photographer at McGill.

Campus shots, and any others bearing on college life will be most welcome. They should be brought to the Annual Office, or leave them at the Union Tuck Shop.

Women's Club Announces
Contest for Radio Play

The Women's Canadian Club of Toronto has announced that it will again hold its Annual Literary Competition, which this year takes the form of a play suitable for radio production.

A prize of $100, given in its entirety or divided among two or three contestants at the discretion of the judges, will be awarded for the best play submitted. The Contest is open to professional and non-professional writers throughout the Dominion. The play must be suitable for radio production, to be acted within one half hour, or approximately 2,500 to 3,000 words.

Rules for the competition will be announced at a later date.

Inhuman Atrocities of Germans

by Karel Poltava

The author of this article is a Czechoslovak student, who took part in the celebration of October 28, 1939 in Praha. He was among those who defended themselves against the Germans trying to suppress the celebrations. He attended the funeral of Jan Opletal. He fought the Germans when they attacked the dormitories. He escaped from a university building when it was penetrated by the Gestapo and witnessed the tortures committed on the students at Ruzyn in the outskirts of Praha. Although hunted by the Gestapo he succeeded in escaping. After crossing the whole of Southeastern Europe, he managed to reach Asia and from there found his way to France, where he joined the Czechoslovak Army. He fought on the Marne, was taken prisoner and spent ten days in German captivity. From occupied France he escaped with friends to unoccupied French territory and reached Marseille. From Marseille he was sent to Morocco and applied for permission to go to England to join the Czechoslovak Army there, but the Vichy authorities arrested him and sent him into forced labour in the Sahara. For more than fifteen months he worked as a slave labourer on the construction of the Trans-Sahara railroad. Finally Karel Poltava escaped to Canada, where he is serving in the Czechoslovak Air Force.

The student Jan Opletal was shot, the Czechoslovak National Anthem. The body of the first student martyr was to be taken to his native village in Moravia. It was a dignified and impressive funeral. We dispersed submerged in deep thoughts. Among the onlookers, however, were German students sent by the Gestapo to provoke and mock the Czechoslovak students. During the entire ceremony we had kept silent and suffered their insults, but in Nasupl street, when the Germans did not cease and grew bolder, we answered. They knew that they were backed by the police gathered in the side streets.

German Provocations

The clash with the German provokers was a bloody one. At their signal the police rushed against us. Some detachments were on horseback. The policemen struck us with clubs to disperse us. A huge crowd of students streamed towards Charles Square. There we were awaited by German students and by detachments of Storm Troopers. There the fight started. We defended ourselves with our bare hands, while they shot at us with rifles and revolvers. Several groups of students took refuge in the Technical Institute building. Others streamed further into the centre of

Gathering Will Hear Problems
Of Students of Many Lands

An Allied Nations Student meeting has been arranged to take place this Thursday evening at 8.00 p.m. The meeting, sanctioned by the War Council, was planned in order to bring together students of the many nations now attending McGill to exchange accounts of their native lands.

Arrangements have been in the hands of a committee formed by members of the Cosmopolitan Club, the Student Christian Movement, the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, The British West Indian Society, the Maccabean Circle, and the Student Labour Club. This group felt that something was needed to supplement the meeting to be held this afternoon in the Moyse Hall.

The principal speaker of the evening will be Mlle. Frances, lecturer in the English department, who will give a talk on the position of students in wartime. Also, there will be a speaker who will outline the present work of the International Student Service all over the world.

In addition, there will be short talks, by students from the countries concerned, on the various aspects of student life (Continued on Page Four.)

Declaration of Students for November 17

We, students of Great Britain, all her Dominions and India, North and South America, of the U.S.S.R., Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Greece, China, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Yugoslavia and all freedom loving nations, pay homage to the executed Czechoslovak students who were the first to give the signal to mass resistance against the Nazi oppressors in Autumn, 1939, and we declare

NOVEMBER 17TH THE INTERNATIONAL DAY OF STUDENTS.

We, who today form a united front against all forms of Fascism and all kinds of oppression, without any distinction of country, race, class, and creed and who fight with weapons in our hands in the air, on the sea and on the land for the liberty of our peoples, bow to the memory of these heroic young victims of barbarian violence who died in the vanguard of the battle, and by their dying lit a flame in the darkness which can never be put out.

We declare that November 17th shall always be for us not only the day on which free students everywhere shall pay tribute to their dead Czechoslovak fellows and to those who are still in prison and concentration camps, but it shall also be the day when we will remember with fervent determination the ideals for which they suffered and are suffering.

Realizing that the triumph of Fascism means among other things the death of culture everywhere and the destruction of the brotherhood of unfettered learning, we free students give our solemn promise to do all that is in our power to crush this brutal Fascist violence and to dedicate ourselves to preventing its renewal in any shape or form.

Nominations Requested
For Students' CouncilElections Will Be Held
On Ninth of December

Nominations for faculty representatives to the Students' Executive Council have been called for, and must be in the hands of the Secretary of the Students' Society by 2.30 p.m., Monday, November 23. Those students to be elected must be in their junior year.

One representative each will be elected from the faculties of: Arts and Science, Engineering, Medicine, Law, Dentistry, School of Commerce, Theology, and the Royal Victoria College. Only those students who are in good academic standing and who are not carrying any subjects are eligible for nomination.

The customary procedure in nominating a person is to put his or her name down in writing, and then to obtain the signatures of at least ten undergraduate students from the faculty which the nominee is to represent. This nomination should be handed in to the Secretary of the Students' Society.

The Students' Executive Council is a body of undergraduate students who act as an intermediary between the Students' Society and the University. They carry out the policies of the Students' Society, and also act as a court before which any student can be summoned in case of any misdemeanour.

Elections will be held by the Undergraduate Societies of the Faculties on December 9.

This Thursday, the Women's Union will meet in the R.V.C. Common Room at 5.00 p.m. to hear talks by Jean Mitchell and Mary Miller. They are going to give their impressions and knowledge gained from the trip each made to the States this summer.

The Women's Union granted a scholarship to Jean Mitchell enabling her to attend the discussions at the Institute of World Affairs during the holidays. The Institute, whose headquarters are now at Berkshire, Connecticut, held meetings to discuss world problems and post-war reconstruction. The Conference stressed the importance of total effort in winning the war and the solution of the peace problem.

Present at the five-week meeting was Sir Norman Angell, World English Economist; also in attendance were thirty students, half of Students of McGill will gather today to pay tribute to their martyred Czechoslovak colleagues. Colonel C. Hutnik, the Officer Commanding the Czechoslovak Forces in Canada, will describe the massacres of the students and the pillaging of the university buildings, at a meeting in Moyse Hall at 5.00 p.m. This will be held as a protest against the atrocities displayed opposing education; as an emphasis on the participation of students in the war effort; and as an emphasis of one of the main war aims of the United Nations, that of free thought.

McGill joins with the rest of the free students throughout the world in the observation of November 17, which this year is the third anniversary of the closing of universities and massacring of students by German soldiers and Gestapo men in Czechoslovakia.

Rallies in England, U.S.A.

This day has been declared an International Day of Students by assemblies of students in London and Washington. The main celebration will be a mass rally in Albert Hall in London addressed by Dr. Edouard Benes, the President of the Czechoslovak Republic, and by the Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden. A world wide network of the BBC will broadcast the proceedings at 8.15 this evening.

Canadian universities at Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal will participate in this event. Besides the Albert Hall rally, there will be demonstrations at other British universities such as Cambridge, Oxford, Manchester and Edinburgh.

In the United States, the Vice-President Henry Wallace will speak at Columbia University and Wendell L. Willkie will address the students of International House at the University of Chicago.

New Play Reading Club
Inaugurated at R.V.C.

A Play Reading Club has been formed in Montreal which will meet every Wednesday in Room 2 of R.V.C. This club has been formed for the purpose of helping those people interested in dramatics to get practice in reading plays. Several well-known Montreal actors have been engaged who will give assistance to anyone needing it, and who will also read plays themselves. Those people interested may come and listen to the plays being read, or, if they wish may take part as well.

A fee of two dollars for the season is being charged for non-residents, but those residing in R.V.C. may attend free of charge.

Tickets for the Plumbers' Banquet, Friday, at 6.45 p.m., are still obtainable, although sales have increased rapidly since last Saturday. A thermometer in the Engineering Building will indicate the number sold and will be an index of the refund for those who have already purchased tickets.

Promissory notes must be redeemed before Friday evening, to be recognized, the executive states, refunds will be made on the basis of sales. If the number exceeds 150, a quarter will be returned to the purchasers, while more than 225 sales will allow for a refund of fifty cents.

In addition to the address by L. Austin Wright, the committee will feature a floor show. Jack Adams, master of ceremonies, will introduce and direct the entertainers, an Oriental-Hawaiian dance, a piano soloist, and vaudeville acts with a soft-shoe specialty number. Mr. Wright's address will outline the effects of Selective Service on graduating engineers. A similar speech was given to the Engineering students at Queens' University earlier this year. Japanese Fleet Routed Off Guadalcanal

A Washington communique issued yesterday announced that 23 Japanese ships had been sunk and 7 damaged in a battle off Guadalcanal island; the Americans lost 8 ships. Among the Japanese losses are included 8 transport ships, causing the death of at least 24,000 troops. Washington claims this battle may be the most important naval victory since Jutland.

Wendell Willkie Criticizes Churchill

In a recent statement Wendell Willkie stated that the world "had been profoundly shocked" by Prime Minister Churchill's "We mean to hold our own, and I have not been chosen to be the king's first minister with the purpose of watching the dissolution of the British Empire." Willkie added that he was looking forward to seeing equal distribution of territory and raw materials at the end of the war.

London announced that motorized American troops had reinforced the British First Army fighting in Tunisia. It added that small French units had also allied themselves with the British, and had already joined in the fighting. German claims of large British naval losses were denied. "The Royal Navy retains control of the Western Mediterranean and its approaches," London stated.

Outing Club Meeting Features Ski Movies

New Members to Be Initiated—Meets To Be Planned

The M.O.C. holds its first meeting tonight at 8.00 in the Union. All skiers, past, present and would-be will thrill to the really terrific shots of McGill's great skiers in action. Making the movies even more spectacular is the fact that they are entirely in colour—and if you've ever seen Northern Quebec in her winter splendour you know just what that means. Perhaps the best are of Doug Mann whipping down a slalom course at incredible speed—then doing it all over again in slow motion. Breakneck races long past, leap to life—there are shots of just about every slope from the Nosedive at Mount Mansfield to the famous Flying Mile of Mont Tremblant.

Yet skiing is only one of the activities of McGill's up-and-outers. All this Fall bands of enthusiasts have been taking the long trail north—some to cut trails, clearing old ones and driving new ones, and marking them all with the snappy new M.O.C. Markers (six hundred in all) which these same fanatics spent long summer nights designing, painting and executing. The trails will be in better condition this year, as far as mere guidance is concerned, than ever before. Others of the Club went up week-end after week-end to risk fool-hardy necks on the heights of Val David—shepherded by the sure guidance of the Bretts. Of this department of the Club's activities some really excellent movies were obtained and these too will be shown tonight.

The Club's plans for this winter season will be outlined in a short preliminary discussion. Last year they organized the highly successful Park Slide, in addition to cross-country treks and Intercompany racing. Since it is McGill's only official skiing organization the M.O.C. counts among its members all those who skied in club competitions last year and all who intend to do so this year are urged to take advantage of club membership.

The feminine drive for equality has found full expression in the ranks of the McGill Outing Club. Almost as many skinneras (whoops) as skiers were enrolled last year. The executive, of course, has every intention of renewing this happy state of affairs and advises, urges, begs and even pleads with every co-ed interested to come on down to the Union tonight and see for themselves what a wonderful sport skiing is and how charming the male skiers are (or were, anyhow).

New Members will receive badges and official enrolment. A business meeting of definitely short duration will precede the movies. The Executive point out that since these ceremonies will take up some time those members of the U.A.T.C. and others who are parading till nine o'clock can come right on down and, should they miss any of the early sequences they will be able to see them shown again at the end.

THE PROBLEM.

There had been his algebra professor—the little gray-haired gent who was always looking for x.

"You can find x only if you know what y is," he had said.

Or, if he was looking for y he would say, "You can find y only if you know what x is."

Then he would cover yards of black-board with hurried figures of chalk and prove $y=5x-1$.

"It is very simply, you can find y if you know what x is."

Only x was always approximate. It could be 1 or 2 or 100. You had to look for y when actually you wanted x, or for x when you wanted y. One always had to look for something else.

He had wondered, then, how the professor could spend his life looking for x when really he wanted y. It had all been very confusing.

Of course, he realized now, it had been necessary for this little gray-haired gent to keep solving for x when actually he wanted y. One

So, he had started all over again, looking for x.

By now, he had forgotten how many times he had started, maybe it was because he was tired, but sometimes he would even forget he was looking for x or y, or sometimes he would stop looking altogether.

It was no good, this stopping altogether. One could forget about being unhappy if one kept busy looking for answers. It was only when one stopped looking; when one began to realize that if one found x it would be impossible to find y, or that if one found y, it would be impossible to find x, that the exhaustion set in. The big problems, the ones involving the x's and the y's, with one always dependent on the other, were the ones that finally defeated a person, he supposed. He wished (wildly, for he was tired) that x would not always be dependent on y. This way, everything was so confusing.

McGill Cage Team Opposes Local Military Unit Friday

Inter-company League Set Up Announced

This coming Friday evening, the big Red cage team will trot out on the floor of the Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium and display their wares in the initial McGill league contest of the season against the quintet from Number 5 Manning Depot. The personnel of this representative team has not as yet been selected, but the number and quality of the McGill aspirants indicates that the Redmen are in for a banner year.

The Montreal Senior Basketball League will also find a McGill entry in its midst, but this squad will not see any competitive activity until some time in the early part of December.

But the Athletics department has announced that the cagemen who are unsuccessful in their attempt to place on a representative team, will have ample opportunity to continue playing the game. This is largely due to the vast Inter Company program which is being arranged.

The main feature of this year's basketball set up will be centred around competition between the four major units at the university, A and B wings of the C.O.T.C., the U.A.T.C., and all those students attending the university who are not attached to any of these groups.

These units, plus teams from Macdonald College and from the R.C.A.F. stationed at McGill, will complete the basketball picture for the coming winter.

To improve the quality of the play and to add enthusiasm to the league, the Athletics Department has decided to allow members of the representative teams to play in the inter-company league, but no more than two on any single squad. The league will get under way as soon as team managers have been chosen and their teams assembled.

Practically all games will be played at 5.15 p.m. and as far as possible each team will play one game per week.

In the Basketball game at the gym on Friday, which will commence at 7.30 p.m., students will be allowed to enter free of charge.

Sergeant: Now, suppose you are on your post one dark night. Suddenly a person appears from behind and wraps two arms around you. What will you call then?

Redmen Face Navy Sextet For Puck Lead

Both Teams Tied for Lead At Present

This Friday night Coach Bobby Bell's Red Pucksters meet Navy's Icemen in a tilt that may well decide the league championship. In their last contests both teams emerged victorious, after displaying really forceful hockey. In the opener the seamen swamped an inferior army aggregate by the devastating margin of 8-1, while the cadets managed to edge out a strong Air Force by a 5-3 count.

The showing put up by the flying Reds was enough to convince even the most sceptic critic that this team will be among the strongest contenders for the N.D.H.L. crown. The line of Farmer, Blair, and Costigan literally flew at times, while Ross Ritchie was cool as a cucumber in the nets. The Redmen played a cool calculating game, and took advantage of the great majority of their breaks, while letting the heavier flyers do most of the attacking.

NAVY STRONG
Navy on the other hand walked through the soldiers, who appeared to be definitely weak. Time after time the sailors would drift through the soldiers' line without apparent effort, and flip the rubber into the net.

Friday night's contest, which is scheduled to take place as the second half of a double header is expected to witness a combination of forceful plays of the Navy and the heady defence and neat passing plays of the McGill squad. Whatever the outcome, this is said by many to be the crucial game of the season in the Defence Loop. One thing is certain and that is the victor will be in sole possession of the league lead while the loser cannot drop below a second place tie.

It was said of a recent "prep" school graduate that one night he left a note on his door for his roommate who had gone to the movies. This bore the legend:
"If I'm studying when you get back, wake me up."

Athletic Representatives Plan Active Program

A meeting of the coed athletic representatives was held on Thursday, November 12, and plans for an active sports season were discussed and decided upon.

Intramural sports will begin next week, and girls will be approached very shortly by the various managers.

Accurate records will be kept of points scored for each section, and every girl can help her section's "thermometer" rise a little higher.

In past years some outside games have been arranged, and there is no reason why this practice cannot be continued. Macdonald College has already challenged the McGill coed hoopers, and unless transportation difficulties interfere, a game or two with Mac will be organized.

laboratories to produce as much as possible; of men and women on the farms to make the land give an unprecedented yield.

"This is not enough. In order to release the total energies of the peoples of the world, we must demonstrate our good faith by assuring all men the right to participate fully and equally in the struggle for freedom. Therefore, we must not be guilty of fostering the same doctrine of racial supremacy propagated by fascism. This is a war of interdependence. Our actions now are shaping the peace. Asia, Asia Minor, Africa, as well as Europe must be free. We must renounce imperialism and all its evils. This means we should recognize the principle of independence for colonial and equal rights and opportunities for national, religious and racial minorities.

"On the basis of a national coalition government in India, we urge that negotiations be re-opened at once between Great Britain and the Indian people toward the granting of political freedom to mobilize the Indian people for an all-out war effort along side of the United Nations.

"Victory must bring a peace of interdependence. International order must be established. The wounds of suffering peoples must be healed. Starving peoples must be fed. International co-operation must be developed which transcends out-moded nationalism. This means an international organization of all peoples with delegation of sovereignty and enough power to make and enforce international decisions. We must utilize the economic resources of our world society so that the determinant of production shall be the general good not the interests of particular groups.

"Victory must mean the right of peoples regardless of race, color or creed to select their own political system, within the framework of freedom of speech, of the press, of religious practice. Victory must mean the abolition of all limitations on the participation of peoples in their governments. Victory must mean the abolition of all discriminations based solely on race, color, creed, or national origin.

"This can be the people's century, if all of us are animated by the spirit of human brotherhood and equality—if the primary principle of social organization is the subordination of every private interest to the common advantage. These are the goals toward which we aspire.

"To the youth of the Fascist nations we say we do not seek a peace of vengeance. We want to build the new world in comradeship with you. Throw off your fascist rulers. Join with us in our common crusade for the People's Century. We say to our friends: soldiers, sailors, airmen, youth of the underground movement, guerilla fighters, students and youth in the factories and on the farms, double our effort. Forward to Victory."

In addition it was decided that the presiding committee should arrange a second International Student assembly, possibly to be held at the time of the peace conference. It was also resolved to adopt President Roosevelt's suggestion that November 17th be set aside as International Students' Day to commemorate the day on which the first Czech-Slovak students were massacred in Prague amid unrepeatable horrors. It is to be hoped that this day will be suitably commemorated at McGill, and thereby serve as an expression of the desire of McGill students for early victory and a just peace in unity with our fighting Allies.

them representing the U.S.A., the remainder, foreign powers. Jean Mitchell will announce the conclusions arrived at in the discussions. Mary Miller was present at the three day International Students' Assembly, which was representative of sixty nations. Among the three hundred delegates was the renowned Russian sniper, Ludmila Pavlichenko. Along with the "Credo" of the Assembly Mary Miller intends to relate her impressions of breakfast with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Moyses Hall To Be Scene of Commemoration Meeting

Participating in the commemoration are China and the U.S.S.R. where widespread demonstrations will take place. Australia, South Africa, Palestine and the countries of South America are observing this international rally.

Col. Hutnik, the Chief of the Czechoslovak Mission to Canada, was in Praha during German occupation and witnessed the pillaging of some of the university buildings. He was a professor of Political and Military Science at Praha University and at the Czechoslovak Command and General Staff School. His talk will include a description of the massacres and a message to the students of McGill. He will be thanked by Dr. C. P. Martin on behalf of the gathering.

TO THE GANG BACK HOME.

Ed. note: The source of this clipping is unknown. We thank the donor and trust that it will amuse at least someone.

I'm one of the fellows who is making the world safe for democracy. I fought and fought, but I had to go anyway. I was in Class A—the next time I want to be in Class B (B here when they leave and B here when they come back). I remember when I registered. I went up there to the desk and the man in charge was my milkman. He said, "What is your name?" I said, "Oh, you know me." "What's your name?" he barked. I told him "August Childs," and he said, "Are you alien?" I said, "No, I feel fine." He asked me where I was born, and I said "Pittsburgh." Then he said, "When did you first see the light of day?" and I said, "When we moved to Philadelphia." He asked me how old I was, so I told him 23 the first day of September. He said, "The first day of September you will be in China and that will be the last of August."

Then I went to camp, and I guess they didn't think I would live long. The first fellow I saw wrote on my card "Flying Corps." I went a little further, and some fellow said, "Look what the wind's blowing in." I said, "Wind nothing. The draft's doing it." On the second morning they put these clothes on me. What an outfit! As soon as you're in it, you think you could fight anybody. They have two sizes—too big and too small. The pants were so tight I couldn't sit down. The shoes were so big I turned around three times and they didn't move. What a raincoat they gave me—it strained the rain. I passed an officer all dressed up with a funny belt and all that stuff. He said, calling to me, "Didn't you notice my uniform when you passed?" I said, "Yeah, what are you kicking about—look what they gave me."

One morning, when it was about five degrees below, they called us out for underwear inspection. Talk about scenery—red flannels, B.V.D.'s of all kinds. The union suit I had on would fit Tony Galento. The Lieutenant lined us up and told us to stand up. I said, "I am up, sir, but this underwear I have on makes you think I'm sitting down."

He got so mad he put me out digging a ditch. A little later he passed me and said, "Don't throw that dirt up here." I said, "Where am I going to put it?" He said, "Dig another hole and put it in there."

Three days later we sailed for Australia. Marching down the pier, I had the worst luck. I had a sergeant who stuttered, and it took him so long to say "Halt," that 27 of us marched overboard. They pulled us out and lined us up on the pier. The Captain came by and said, "Fall in." I said, "I have been in sir."

I was on the boat 12 days—sick for 12 days. Nothing going down and everything coming up. I leaned over the rail all the time. In the middle of one of my best leans the Captain rushed by and said, "What company are you in?" I said, "I'm all by myself."

He asked if the Brigadier was up yet. I said, "If I swallowed it, it's up."

Talk about dumb people. I said to one of the fellows, "I guess we dropped the anchor." He replied, "I knew they'd lose it—it's been hanging out ever since we left New York." Well, we landed and were immediately sent to the trenches; after three nights there, the cannons began to roar and the shells began to pop. I was shaking with patriotism. I tried to hide behind a tree, but there weren't enough trees for the officers. The Captain came

Annual Photographs

The following graduating students are expected to have their pictures taken at Jacoby Studios, 1541 Crescent Street Wednesday, for publication in the Annual. They will be taken at any time from 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. without appointment, except Saturdays. Appointments for sittings at other hours, if necessary, may be made by phoning PL 1075 for an appointment.

The price, $2.25 (or $2.75 if a finished portrait is desired), is payable at time of sitting.

NOTE—The names of several graduating students have unfortunately been omitted from these published lists. This is regrettable but nonetheless unavoidable. These lists are obtained from the Registrar's Office and are thus the best available.

All graduating students should have their photographs taken. The lists which are published serve as a guide, indicating to the student which day he should go to the Studios. Any student whose name is not on the list, yet is graduating this year, should have his picture taken at the same time as the rest of his class.

around and said, "We go over the top at 5 o'clock." I said, "I'd like to have a furlough." He said, "Haven't you any real blood in you?" I said, "Yes, but I don't want to see it." Five o'clock we went over the top, and 10,000 Japs came at us. The way they looked at me you'd think I had started the war. Our Captain yelled, "Fire at will," but I didn't know anybody by the name of Will. I guess the fellow behind me thought I was Will, because he fired the gun and shot me in the excitement.

SPOONERISM.

It was an ideal day for a game and the earnest but sporting young curate was trying to read the Sunday lesson in church and dream about yesterday's soccer game at the same time. All went well until he came to the sentence where the disciple was fishing "and he got a great shoal which nearly broke the net." Here the reader's subconscious overcame him and he rendered the passage: "and he shot a great goal which nearly broke the net."

Fome

I think that I shall never see
A man refuse a meal that's free,
A man with greedy eyes not fixed
Upon a drink that's being mixed,
A man who doesn't like a swig of
rye,
And a lot of suits to match that one
red tie,
Men are loved by gals like me,
But who the h— would kiss a tree?

of the entertainment committee, has negotiated the arrangements for both the floor show and Mr. Wright's address. The program will begin with the speech, followed by dinner. The floor show is the last offering of the evening.

The executive has inaugurated a new procedure, and unlike previous years drinks will be distributed in unlimited quantities. Members of the executive also urge all those plunkers expecting to purchase tickets to do so early, since the refunds depend on the sale of tickets and the sooner they are bought, the sooner money may be returned.

portunity to express his opinion. The future program of the Philosophical Society will feature several speakers who will deal with various topics of a philosophical nature. At the close of the meeting refreshments will be served.

A man travelling on a train, got off when the train stopped at a station, to get some matches. He put a penny in the slot machine, only to find that it was empty. Then he noticed that he had put a quarter, not a penny. He turned around just in time to see his train leaving the station. He stomped down the platform to where a man was bending over tying his shoelaces, and kicked the man in his protruding extremity, and said, "You're always tying your shoelaces."
